

Emerging Leaders Program Graduates

East African Cohort

"I knew I had influence but never considered myself as a leader, with Tirzah, I am now confident that I am a leader. I never used to voice my thoughts and feelings, however in the Tirzah cohort, the mentors showed us that everyone is valued, and we all express ourselves. I have new friends and have come to realize that they speak out of love. We laugh and encourage each other, and the mentors prune us to be the best versions of ourselves."

"When Rachel asked me to be a mentor, I saw it as an exciting opportunity to serve and build God's children. I, however, have been amazed at how God has turned this into a learning opportunity. The literature and modules used as learning tools have been a great source of information for me not only as a mentor but as a person. The diverse learning and interpretation of God's word and the accompanying tools are rich and easy to understand. I have personally attempted all the assignments which consequently have immeasurably changed my life and view of these key leadership topics."

"I am grateful to God for giving me the chance to enroll in the Tirzah leadership class. I have been able to understand through several modules why God created me and what my purpose is on earth. I have realized that I have a particular calling, and I need to focus on the values that shape that calling. I have also been able to recognize that I have leadership qualities within me, which is something I didn't realize previously."

"Now I can inspire other people to discover who they are and what their calling is. The modules have helped me to understand how God has equipped me to assist others and inspire others to place their complete faith in Jesus. When I talk to people, I always tell them how great our God is and how he can move mountains."
